BANK ROBBERY

At approximately 4:55 p.m. subjects entered captioned FDIC insured bank. Two subjects approached the bank manager and used a ruse of applying for a loan and then advised her that this was a holdup and requested that she ask the bank guard to step to the desk. The four individuals then proceeded into a back room behind the tellers area while the third man dressed in a guard shirt remained in the bank lobby. Money was obtained and placed in a briefcase in the backroom.

The bank alarm was activated and while the two robbers were in the back room, two Boston Police Officers entered the bank and the subject in the lobby attempted to disarm the first officer as he entered the lobby. As the second officer entered the lobby he observed his partner in trouble and that the robber was armed with a handgun and proceeded to fire two shots at the subject in the lobby. The two robbers in the back room then exited the rear room and were placed under arrest by the Boston Police Department. All money was recovered. The subject in the bank lobby was pronounced dead on arrival at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, Massachusetts.

Both subjects interviewed by FBI and both admitted their participation in captioned robbery.

Bank protected by alarms [REDACTED] which were activated.

The Fort Hill Community

We are a group of people between the ages of 16 and 30 who have been experimenting with communal living for seven years now and have come up with some amazing results which we would like to share with you. We have all learned how to live more fully and love more fully and in this process of eternal becoming we have developed some techniques designed to accelerate the growth of consciousness. We do not use drugs, although many of us had been heavy drug takers before the advent of this communal program. We do not use meditation, although many of us were into occult science and esoteric philosophy prior to this program. We are not a religion or a spiritual school though we do contain the elements of both. We are happy, self-realized human beings who do not deny ourselves any of the comforts of life but, in fact, seek ways to TRULY enjoy life. All men are brothers, all women sisters, all men and women are brothers and sisters. But this kind of order is not realized overnight. People have been learning how to live together on this planet ever since there were people and there is no end to this process, together we are creating the world and always HAVE been. The world we create is a reflection of how we communicate with each other and how we communicate with each other is a reflection of how conscious we are of ourselves, the more we know about ourselves the more we know about others and the more we know the more we have to share and sharing is the purpose of communal living. What do you want out of life? What is keeping you from GETTING what you want? Where is the real YOU? Maybe we can help you answer some of these questions.

We have devised for you a series of structured games to bring you closer to others. Each group is guided by an experienced leader, whose main concern is to safely transport you through the obstacles that keep you separated from others. These courses are designed only to make you aware of things you already know, and how to make use of these things as better tools to get what you want.

ADVANCED COURSES

* Creative Communication

$45

Poor communication is the prime obstacle to community. This two day course will show you that self-knowledge is the key to knowledge of others and thus to creative communications. The course consists of a series of structured and unstructured games designed specifically to help you understand yourself first, then the others in the games.

* Realization of World Community

$55

Saturday & Sunday; noon to 10 p.m.

The history of community is the history of the world. People have always been learning how to live together, be it as a family, a village, or a nation. An awareness of this history provides the means of consciously, deliberately achieving community on any scale, including that of the world.

* Leadership (How to Control Your Universe)

$55

Saturday & Sunday; noon to 10 p.m.

Control of your universe is measured by your ability to understand and adapt to it, just as to lead is to serve. This course will provide you with the means to that control, which can be total.

** Practical Application of Communal Living

$200

Water flows to unite with water, because all parts of it are subject to the same laws. So too should human society hold together through a community of interests that allows each individual to feel himself a member of a whole. You will live as a part of a community that has been functioning for seven years. The entire program is intended to provide you with every experience possible. It is guaranteed you will get what you really want out of life.

*** Mystery Course

This course is available for those who have completed the above. Here, in an atmosphere of beauty and elegance, pupils combine the practical with the sublime. It is through the human heart that all real life flows. Your heart, your soul, your life will unite into one purpose under the guidance of a subtle teacher: yourself.

SUPPLEMENTARY COURSES

*** Advanced Astrology $45

Saturday & Sunday; noon to 10 p.m.

Fluency in the language of astrology is the goal of this course. By studying your own chart, you will learn to make astrology work for you in your relationships with other people by a greater understanding of them, an understanding to which there are no limits.

*** Omniversal Design $45

Saturday & Sunday; noon to 10 p.m.

The purity and elegance of mathematics is taken off paper, out of the realm of theory, and put right in your hand. You will come to understand the fundamental physical forces of the universe by actually constructing mosaics in space that are both practical and beautiful. Taught by John Kostick, the man who is creating the new structure of the world.

At approximately 4:55 p.m. subjects entered captioned FDIC insured bank. Two subjects approached the bank manager and used a ruse of applying for a loan and then advised her that this was a holdup and requested that she ask the bank guard to step to the desk. The four individuals then proceeded into a back room behind the tellers area while the third man dressed in a guard shirt remained in the bank lobby. Money was obtained and placed in a briefcase in the backroom.

The bank alarm was activated and while the two robbers were in the back room, two Boston Police Officers entered the bank and the subject in the lobby attempted to disarm the first officer as he entered the lobby. As the second officer entered the lobby he observed his partner in trouble and that the robber was armed with a handgun and proceeded to fire two shots at the subject in the lobby. The two robbers in the back room then exited the rear room and were placed under arrest by the Boston Police Department. All money was recovered. The subject in the bank lobby was pronounced dead on arrival at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, Massachusetts.

Both subjects interviewed by FBI and both admitted their participation in captioned robbery.

[redacted] was driving and his partner was Patrolman [redacted]. While on Tremont Street, across the street from and facing Brigham Circle, at approximately 5:00 p.m., on August 29, 1973, his car received a radio dispatch to investigate a holdup alarm at the New England Merchants Bank at Brigham Circle. He and his partner immediately got out of the car and with [redacted] leading, they both entered the foyer door at which time he observed an individual whom he believed to be a security guard because the shirt he was wearing was the kind worn by bank security guards. [ ] immediately returned to the bank just as the patrol wagon was pulling up and in a couple of minutes the other two robbers were placed in the wagon and removed from the scene. [ ] stated that when the two robbers were placed in the wagon he observed that one was wearing a brown suit and dress shirt and he noticed a piece of paper tucked in this robbers belt. [ ] removed the piece of paper, holding it at one corner, opened it and recalled that the note contained about six lines and that the last line was underlined. The note indicated something to the effect that, "There are three of us, we're going to rob you, don't get alarmed". [ ] stated he understands this note is presently at the Boston Police Headquarters for fingerprint examination.

[ ] stated that when he returned to the bank from the hospital, he got his feet tangled up on some fishing line as he entered the bank and he later understood that this fishing line ran from the area where the wounded robber had been standing through both doors of the bank to the sidewalk. He said this was the first he noticed this fishing line and this fishing line is apparently the reason that it is thought by some that a fourth robber may have been outside the bank using the fishing line as a warning device.

FRECHETTE stated he was originally from the Connecticut area. His parents currently reside in Fairfield, Connecticut. He stated he attended high school at Notre Dame High School, Bridgeport, Connecticut, but he did not graduate. He stated he quit school his senior year in December, 1965. He stated he came to Boston in 1966 and has resided here since that time, with the exception of one brief stay in California (refused to elaborate). He stated he was divorced, and that his former wife's name was [redacted] and they had finalized their divorce in December, 1969 in Boston.

He stated that at one time since moving to Boston, he was employed for a short period of time with General Motors, Auburndale, Massachusetts. He refused to discuss any of the employments, but stated he was a carpenter by trade. He refused to discuss where he was currently living, but stated that he had lived at 27 Fort Avenue, Roxbury, Massachusetts, up until about a month ago. FRECHETTE refused to discuss how he had met [redacted] or CHRIS. He declined to state who had planned or organized the bank robbery.

He stated the idea to rob the bank was a spur-of-the-moment idea. There were only three (3) people involved -- himself, [redacted] and CHRIS (last names refused). He stated they had walked to the bank, but refused any other details. purchased his in Maine within the last six (6) months, and HERC had one when they first met (details refused). They entered the bank and FRECHETTE walked to a girl seated at a desk and told her that this was a bank robbery. He had her call the guard to her desk where he so informed the guard, and ordered him to hand over his pistol so that no people would be hurt. He then took the guard's revolver and stuck it inside his belt. He refused to state his actions from that point on, but stated the next thing that happened, two (2) policemen ran in the door, a second later there were shots fired, and he saw HERC fall and, at the same time, police were yelling, "Put your hands up." He stated he dropped his revolver and that it is his recollection that it fell into a trash can or wastebasket. He stated the policemen then removed the pistol from his belt, and he was hand-cuffed and placed on the floor.

FRECHETTE was adamant in stating there were only three (3) people involved in the robbery. He stated he had no knowledge of the string or wire tied to HERC's leg, and says it must have been just laying in the street. Although repeatedly asked, FRECHETTE stated he had no knowledge of CHRIS's or HERC's real name, or of anything which might help identify him. He stated that at one time, CHRIS worked on a fishing boat in Alaska, that he had come from California, and that he has a brother somewhere. On August 30, 1973, Assistant United States Attorney (AUSA) [ ] Boston, Massachusetts, was advised of the circumstances of the attempted bank robbery and subsequent shooting and arrest of the individuals involved. AUSA [ ] was advised that the Boston, Massachusetts Police Department had taken custody of all of the evidence as well as the subjects and had controlled the initial investigation for approximately one hour prior to notification of the Bureau of the robbery. AUSA [ ] was also advised that initial investigation has determined that the individuals involved in this bank robbery may have been living in a Fort Hill Commune in Roxbury, Massachusetts. AUSA [ ] was further advised that a witness to the bank robbery, who was in the bank during the course of the robbery, [ ] is also known to the Bureau as belonging to the Fort Hill Commune. AUSA [ ] was advised no evidence has been developed that would indicate a direct connection of [ ] to the bank robbery, and that the subjects in custody steadfastly deny the involvement of any other individuals. AUSA [ ] was advised that no evidence has been developed to link the Fort Hill Commune to the bank robbery other than the apparent possibility that the individuals in custody had been residing at the commune. b6 b7C

It was pointed out to AUSA [ ] that subject FRECHETTE had told Bureau Agents that the bank robbery was a spur of the moment act of self-defiance.

AUSA [ ] advised that it is the policy of the United States Attorney's Office at Boston, to defer prosecution to the local authorities. However, AUSA [ ] advised that the local prosecution should be followed and that in the event a possible conspiracy is uncovered, the matter should be again reviewed for Federal prosecution.
